

Hollis Cancer Center Survivorship Care Program

What is the Survivorship Care Program?

This program is designed for patients following their primary care cancer treatment. Many cancer survivors can experience lasting side effects from treatment. The purpose of this program is to concentrate on the needs of patients immediately following active primary treatment and to help patients smoothly transition into the experience of cancer survivorship.

Who can participate in the program?

This program is open to all cancer survivors.

How is the plan of care established?

Patients will first meet with a Hollis Cancer Center provider who will consider the patient's physical, emotional, psychosocial, sexual and spiritual needs. When the assessment is complete, the survivor will be presented with a plan of care.

What is in the plan of care?

The plan of care will focus on the following areas:

- problems and side effects from the cancer and from the treatments
- a treatment summary (this describes the cancer type and the treatment used)
- evidence-based recommendations for follow-up
- how the follow-ups will be conducted
- who will be offering treatments

This information will be given to both the patient and the primary care physician.

How do I sign up for the survivorship program?
